Can Castle Competition

Cal State Fullerton had its annual Honors Week from October 24-30. Honors week recognizes the honor students in the various fields of study on this campus. The University Honors and Scholars Center held several events throughout the week.

Kappa Omicron Nu took part in the Can Castle Competition. KON joined forces with Eta Sigma Gamma (Health Science Honor Society) for this competition. The canned goods collected benefited underprivileged families through the Orange County Rescue Mission

The Can Castle Competition took place on October 28th 2004. KON and Eta Sigma Gamma decided to build a replica of the Seattle Space Needle. After a few failed attempts, the group was successful and their replica turned out well. The members of both organizations had a blast getting together for this fun and memorable event.

Both organizations were recognized for collecting +100 cans and received certificates for their accomplishments.
